New Financial Workshop Series for Small Businesses from BDCC

News Release Date 03-14-2022

Brattleboro, VT – On March 24th the Brattleboro Development Credit Corporation will begin a new workshop series for small businesses designed to increase financial acumen. Join BDCC's Business Technical Assistance Provider, Eyad Salha, for training sessions designed to help small business owners navigate today's financial challenges. The workshops will provide practical tools, resources and steps to help your financial expertise. The first three live trainings can be accessed via Zoom:

- March 24th 4:00 PM-5:30 PM Income Statements
- April 19th 4:00 PM-5:30 PM Balance Sheets
- June 23rd 4:00 PM-5:30PM How Do Investors and Banks Assess Small Businesses?

Upon completion of the live workshops, attendees will have access to two additional prerecorded classes:

- Forecasting How to Plan for the Future of my Business. Learn how to manage and forecast your businesses' cash flow and create cash flow statements.
- Budgeting How to Build a Master Budget. Learn how to create a master budget for your business. Gain an understanding between static and flexible budgets and when to use them.

Register HERE, maximum capacity of 30 participants.

These "Foundations in Entrepreneurship and Small Business Development" workshops are provided by the BDCC Business Services Team. The new series builds on "Financial Foundation and Budgeting" workshops, which covered basic concepts of financial statements, budgeting, and contingency planning. Recordings of the 2021 workshops are available here.
